

ARIZONA WEEKLY JOURNAL

J. C. MARTIN, Ed.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY.

T. D. Van Dervoort has taken on the P. &amp; A.C.R.R.

The territorial board of education will hold a meeting next Monday.

Candidates, to insure their election should purchase their clothing at the Lion Store.

Any one in doubt as to the best ticket to elect should vote a straight republican ticket.

Articles of incorporation of the Oro Fino placer mining company have been filed for record.

We have been informed that C. W. Beach has sold the old Miner type to J. Marion, of the Courier.

There will be a ladies' class formed at the dancing school on Saturday evening. All are requested to attend.

We are pleased to record the names of a number of new subscribers to both the Daily and Weekly JOURNAL-MINER, thanks to our friends.

Wells H. Bates and wife arrived from the east last evening and are domiciled at Major C. P. Dake's.

W. C. Basford &amp; Co. during the past few days have added a car load of sugar to their immense stock of general merchandise.

A deed for an interest in certain mining property from Warren Callen to the Oro Fino placer mining company has been filed for record.

The Cabinet saloon, Misses Kastner &amp; Thorne, proprietors, will be opened this evening. Miss Annie Robinson, a celebrated pianist and vocalist will favor the patrons of the place with instrumental and vocal music.

The JOURNAL-MINER will go right along publishing the news and working for the advancement of Arizona, and Yavapai county in particular, and continue in every respect, as it has been for several years, the leading paper of Arizona, regardless of the oft reiterated falsehood concerning the proprietorship of it. That he, like its author, has become so old and stale that it is emaciated.

S. A. Henney, the Turkey Creek mining man writes that he expects to return to the territory about the first of November.

Hon. T. J. Butler, as a member of the territorial board of education, has received one of White's physiological manikins, a very unique device which shows the various parts of the human system as they appear in perfect health, also as they appear when attacked by disease. The publishers desire their introduction into the public schools of this territory as an aid to the study of physiology and hygiene.

"We suppose it is all right for a so-called newspaper to do what it can, legitimately, to advance the interest of this town [and section]." Of course it is, and we hope our contemporary which styles itself a newspaper, will pitch in an assist the JOURNAL-MINER in working up a boom for Prescott and Yavapai county.

The board of supervisors will meet in regular quarterly session next Monday.

The administratrix's sale of real estate of the Modder estate which was advertised to take place to-day has been postponed until Wednesday November 3d.

Mrs. F. G. Parker is dangerously ill and is being attended by Dr. McCandless of Prescott and Dr. Alexander of Whipple, medical director of this department and Dr. C. C. Barrows, Surgeon U. S. army.

A Carrington, superintendent of the stage company this morning started their stages to the end of the P. &amp; A.C.R.R. This evening's stage will arrive from Ash Fork, but hereafter they will connect with the branch road. Mr. Carrington went out on this morning's coach to establish the new stations and arrange a time schedule for the new route. The distance to the present terminus is about the same as to Ash Fork, although the route is over much better road. The change will make a difference in fare of $2.00, to points east and west, being that much greater to the east and a reduction of a similar amount to the west.

Referring to the Courier's recent criticism of Delegates Bear for not having secured a post office facility for this territory, the Tucson Citizen says: "The Courier is reminded that Col. Bear is not the postmaster general. His attention is also called to the fact that the democratic postmaster general has curtailed the postal service, almost to a prostration, in nearly every portion of Arizona, in spite of the almost unanimous protestation of the people, and the appeals of our delegates are met with a deaf ear, in strong contrast to the action of the late republican postmaster general when the former democratic delegate made his request."

The Tucson Star like its congener in Prescott squirms and snarls at the republican platform as though it touches a tender spot in its sensibilities. Referring to it the Citizen says: "There is something, however, in the republican platform that absorbs the entire attention of our democratic contemporary. It must be a standing menace to the great unwashed, that it irritates that misguided element so greatly. The Star takes it up, a plank at time; says it is not what it is painted, and then proceeds to scold it, kicks it, shakes it and even bites it, and then looks at the thing with a wonder if anybody will see the points of its venomous teeth. The planks are all there still, and they are sound and intact and full of pat rotisserie and good sense."

After holding on to office for an indefinite period of twelve or fourteen years, E. J. Cook, will be requested on the 1st of January next to make an account of his stewardship and count over the people's money to his successor.
